SCOUTING THE SHOPS with Sally

● We were all sitting at the dinner table feeling very glum when the discussion started. As a matter of fact, we shouldn't have been feeling glum at all for we had a delicious rolled beef roast that had cost only 20c a pound from the Farmer's Meat company.

● It was Sammy who started the discussion. "Is lumbago catching, Pop?" he asked, helping himself liberally to the potato salad (also from Farmer's Meat).

● "I don't know," growled John, "but I'd like to catch your Uncle Hezekiah."

● "Wish he had taken me for a ride on the freight train," said Sue Ann.

● "Gee, Pop, you were sure a sap to cash that $50 check, weren't you?" asked Sammy.

● John choked on his bread-and-butter, glared and spluttered. But Sammy had just begun. He turned to his mother accusingly.

● "Yes, and I thought you said he was rich," he told us. "There's the swellest bicycle in at the Daly City Second Hand store, just like new for only $7.50."

● Sue Ann joined the hue and cry. "And all the other girls are getting permanents from the Plymouth Beauty salon to look nice for the opening of school," she remarked wistfully.

● It was all our shattered morale could do to think of an answer. "It's a good thing Uncle Hezekiah wasn't rich," we admonished them. "Such a bunch of moochers!"

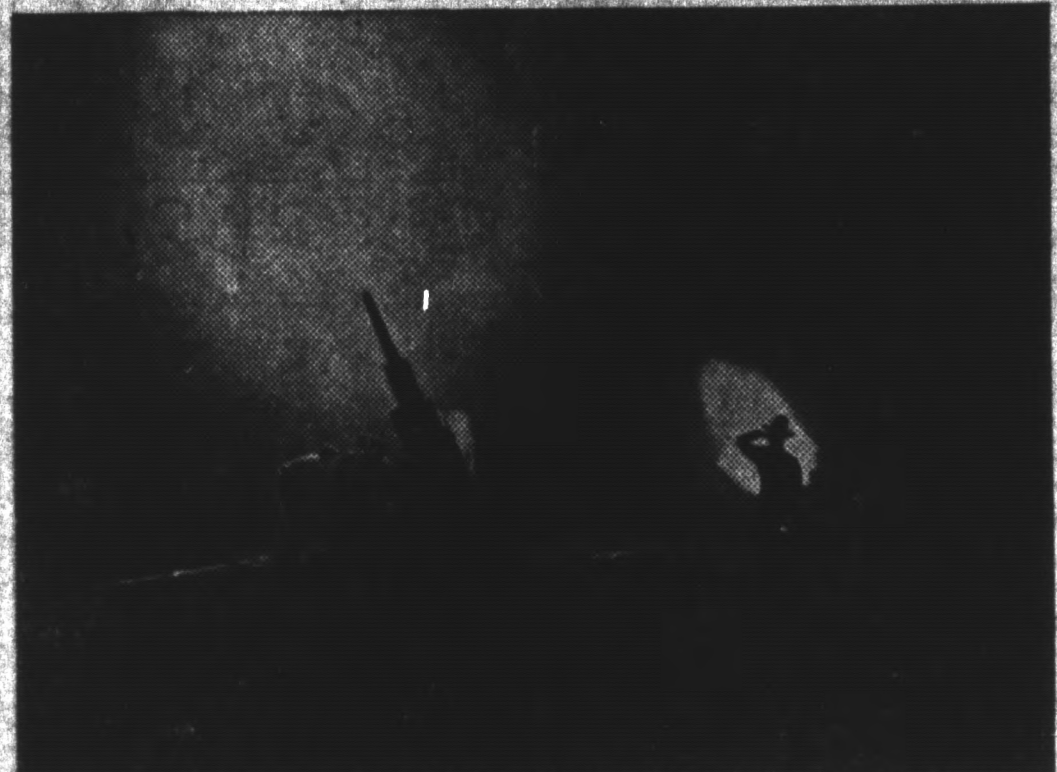

● "Listen, my dear," John pointed out in a tone of pure acid, "just who was it that was planning to re-cover the entire living room set with deep blue velour, on the strength of Uncle Hezekiah?"

● We were almost walling ourselves. "But John, the Daly City Mattress company will do the whole job for as little as $17.50," we remonstrated. "Besides, if I remember correctly, you were the one who had picked out a big used car from a Daly City automobile agency."

● We all sat muttering into (Continued on Page 3)

Lights Out! Britain Tests Air Defenses

Great Britain's regular army and air forces with reserves and auxiliaries, joined with civilian reserves Wednesday in the island's most comprehensive air defense mobilization to date. Saturday Set As Women Shoppers Day

Saturday will be League of Women Shoppers day at the World's Fair when a conducted tour through the consumer exhibits will be given to members and their friends.

Headquarters for the day will be in the Rotunda of the California building from which the tour will leave at 2 p.m. Mrs. H. Baum, acting chairman during the absence of the president, Mrs. John Elssor, has issued the invitation to join in the tour which has been given special attention throughout the country.

Redingote Wraps Big Fashion News

There's any amount of style declared in the redingote wraps that are being tailored to a nicety of either linen, glacial white sharkskin or pique. In their tailoring special importance is attached to pockets and there seems to be no limit as to the number of pockets. In some instances flocks of little pockets enliven the coat and they are made to look very decorative without forfeiting the strict tailored look.

Designer Visions Coming Fashions

Quoting Edith Head, top designer of clothes for Hollywood notables: "The reign of the popular simple frock or suit is over. Everything indicates that the fall and winter styles will be lavish in fabric and extremely romantic and flattering. Clothes will doubtless cause social functions to increase in formality and it will be, all and all, a dressy season."

"I am sure," predicted Miss Head, "that there will be no certain or definite skirt, sleeve, or coat lengths in the coming trend. Women will dress strictly to their own individuality, getting away from the 'sheep' fads and crazes which made all of us look alike for the past several years. At last feminine fashions will assume something else than 'all poured of the same mold.'"

"The high note of the new trend," said the designer, "will be magnificence of material. Silks, brocades, velvets, and embroidered fabrics will be abundant and tailored, all-purpose models will bear a definite death knell."

Copper Featured At World's Fair

CENTURIES ago, long before the dawn of history, copper was first mined and used for implements of war and for necessities of commercial life by a half-savage tribe which inhabited the island of Cyprus, off the Greek coast. This metal was so useful that it became their most cherished possession and they named it in honor of their home, "Cyprian Metal," which name it has kept through the ages although our tongues have changed it to "Copper."

Above is illustrated one of the many interesting features of the Copper & Brass Industry Exhibit, Metals Building, New York World's Fair. It is an animated diorama showing primitive man extracting copper by melting it out of rock by fire. He then hammered the red metal into arrowheads, as implements of war and for commercial purposes. These half-savage people lived mainly on hunting and fishing, and they depended for their subsistence on copper for the spearing of fish and the slaying of animals.

Down through the ages, copper has been man's most useful metal — Old as Time, Modern as Tomorrow.

Wimple Mode

Straight out of the storied Middle Ages comes the inspiration to designers to introduce the wimple effects such as are so voguish this season. The picture presents a Dorna Gordon sportswear model that recently was given its premiere showing at the National Wash Apparel show in Chicago. Note the hood of the same material as fashions the dress and which serves as a collar, a hood or a wimple at the will of the wearer. With the hat on, the hood becomes a wimple. The gown comes in an attractive wash weave in enchanting colors. Hood, frock and tomboy pockets are trimmed with Persian print fabric. Note the youthful swing of the new "skating skirt."

our beards, feeling very mad at one another. It was John who broke the silence.

• "Think I'll get that car any way," he said, "while I can use the coupon on page 5 of the Shopping News for a $5 allowance. That coupon," he concluded bitterly, "is worth just exactly $5 more than Uncle Hezekiah's $50 check."

• "Know why I asked about lumbago?" interrupted Sammy. "Rubbing alcohol is selling for only 16c a pint at Edwards Drug store this week. Is that good for lumbago?"

• "I don't know," we replied, "but Edwards carries a complete line of drug needs and would be sure to have the right thing. Besides, they do a beautiful job of preparing prescriptions, don't they, John?"

• But John was not to be diverted from his troubles, and the dinner broke up in more of a riot than it had begun.

• Nor was breakfast much better. Because it was our wedding anniversary, we had taken special pains, with crisp sizzling bacon from Robertson's Egg store (the budget kind, only 13c) and fresh ranch eggs (also from Robertson's) fried to perfection. In addition, we had bowls of hot Wheat-Hearts (only 23c a package from Lucca Ravioli), topped off with thick yellow cream from the Mission Creamery.

• Since figs are John's favorite fruit, we had picked up some lovely ones the day before at Lucca's for only 5c a pound. (While we were there, we noticed that lamb stew was only 3 pounds for 25c, and Campbell's soups, 3 cans for 25c).

• But alas, John was very grumpy all through breakfast and concentrated on the morning paper. It was plain that he had forgotten all about our anniversary.

• After he had gone (without so much as a good-bye kiss) and we had wiped away a few trailing tears, we decided to be brave about it all and give a dinner and theatre party to surprise him.

• So we called up and made reservations at the Daly City theatre, sent our best evening dress to the Beeson Cleaners because we knew they would be careful with it, and hurried to town to buy our provisions, after inviting all our friends to the occasion. Several of them couldn't come, and we should have known something was wrong at the time.

• The first thing we did up-town was to buy a huge nut-cover-

Flowered Dimity

When a little girl wants to dress her prettiest she chooses a "darling" little frock of daintiest flowered dimity just such as you see in the picture. The colors of the flowerets that are scattered all over the dimity are repeated in the smocking which adorns the waist top in such a way as to form a yoke effect and develop quaint fullness at the waistline. White gloves and white shoes add the finishing touch to the costume of this tiny lady of fashion.

New Hobby

Looms a new hobby on the horizon. It's handkerchief collecting. Not just ordinary handkerchiefs, but handkerchiefs that depict memorable events in American history. There is an interesting group of four, just out, created by Burmel, designer of note. They include Mark Twain's Mississippi, Covered Wagon, Mount Vernon and the Landing of the Pilgrims, printed in vivid tableaux against fetching floral borders. Landing of the Pilgrims is the theme of the handkerchief design carried by the charming collector pictured.

Big Game Census

Uncle Sam's annual check of big game animals in national forests reveals there are three of these animals now for every one present in 1924. The last census disclosed 1,842,000 big game animals. Deer are much the most numerous. Mountain sheep appear to decline in numbers in spite of the protection given them.

"Confessions Of Nazi Spy" Daring Expose Of Espionage In U. S. A.

Without doubt one of the most daring films to see light in the last decade is the current attraction at the Daly City theatre by Warner Bros., who are, it may be said, leaders in every sense of the word, when it comes to cinematic innovations.

The title — "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" — tells the story, but beyond the story lies a deeper and fuller menace. A fictional account, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" was inspired by revelations contained in the recent Nazi spy trials held in New York, Los Angeles and the Panama Canal Zone.

Leon G. Turrou, former ace G-man, who secured the conviction of a number of admitted Nazi spies, acted as technical advisor of the film, which lends some idea as to its authenticity, despite the fact that the events are fictional.

A gripping, powerfully performed drama, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" will bring home to the thousands who will jam theatres all over to see it, the grim realization that the menace is still here.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON
Plays Role of Head G-Man

It will bring home the appalling fact that a country or countries supposedly on friendly terms with the United States have been and in all probability still are carrying on subversive espionage activities directly aiming at undermining the military and democratic institutions of the nation.

If it does no more, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" will make America spy-conscious, which becomes a necessity, for as technical advisor Turrou stated in an interview after one of the trials, "the recent Nazi spy trials barely scratched the surface."

Edward G. Robinson, playing the role of an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who leads the spy ring smashing activity, carries off acting honors although it may be said that the supporting cast does an inspired job. Francis Lederer, a former resident of Czechoslovakia and one of the leaders in peace activities in Hollywood, takes a leading role, the first unsympathetic one in his career. Lya Lys, a foreign actress making her Hollywood debut, stands out as a new threat in the glamour ranks.

Companion feature on the current bill is "Ex-Champ," starring Victor McLaglen.

Scouting the Shops

ed cake from the Geneva Bakery. It doesn't pay to take chances with our own cooking, when we can buy things so inexpensively from the Geneva Bakery.

● Guess what we found at Milo's? Young turkey, at only 29c a pound. (We'd hate to tell you how many pounds we bought). Then they were featuring oranges 4 dozen for 25c, and a grand salad combination. Duchess salad dressing was selling at 25c a quart, and there were so many other specials that we couldn't begin to tell them.

● At the Castle Garden grocery, we found some solid eggplant, 3 pounds for 10c; fancy tomatoes, also 3 pounds for 10c, and several other items for our proposed dinner.

● The Cut Rate Market was also helpful, with a new crop of sweet potatoes, 4 pounds for 15c. Utah celery was 5c a stalk, and beets 3 bunches for 5c. (If you're low on soap, Cut Rate has a couple of nice specials this week).

● Stopping at Westlake Market on our way home, we picked up a two-pound can of M. J. B. coffee for 52c and some nice red apples, 2 dozen for 25c. We felt so happy that we even bought some Buker's dog food for Towser, 6 cans for 25c.

● It took most of the day, hurrying around to get out the best linen and silver, buy flowers, clean house and cook. But we weren't sorry, even though the living room was full of hungry guests before we heard John's step in the hall.

● "Hello, dear," he said, "Surprise!" and gave us a huge tissue-wrapped package.

● Pleased and mystified, we undid the wrappings. "Oh, John, some more phonograph records!" we exclaimed.

● "Yes, Byrne Radio store surely has a nice selection now," he chuckled. "Even Deanna Durbin recordings, but don't tell Sue Ann!"

● We were so happy to think that all marital difficulties had been forgotten, that John had remembered our anniversary, and that Uncle Hezekiah had been lost in the shuffle, that we could hardly wait to break the good news.

● "Better get dressed quickly, dear," we warned. "We're having a special dinner."

● John grinned. "How did you guess? I told the double-crossers not to tell you. Well, we'd better hurry, because the whole gang is already up at the Hilltop Lodge, waiting for us. There were a few who couldn't come, but I guess that won't matter."

● (P. S. The gang all said this morning that they had a wonderful time at the Hilltop last night. John and I still aren't on speaking terms.)

Paris Flashes

Pastel jackets are worn over black dresses.

Back fullness is definite style trend for fall.

Fashions in suede are becoming increasingly popular.

Choker style necklaces are the latest with high necklines.

Slim silhouette a la Directoire is gaining in favor for evening.

Conspicuous earrings are worn with flattering draped turbans.

Advance fashions make elegance of material their theme.

Very large hats, simply trimmed, were worn at the races.

Bags, belts, hats, blouses and dresses stage a riot of gay plaids.

Rich Silk Fabrics

For Coats, Suits

It is with an eye to the future that women are buying the smart new coats now showing in the mid-summer collections, made of rich silk fabric. A costume of the hand-some bengalines and such will carry through until the "frost is on the pumpkin." The appeal of these handsome suits is not to be withstood by best dressed fashionables.

New And Used Car Annual Sales Top Million Dollars

Used Car Event Is One Of New Features of Six Local Auto Agencies

There must be a reason for Daly City auto dealers getting more than a million dollars worth of new and used car business annually. There are several good reasons, foremost of which is personalized service. None of the auto agencies' six local service plants is so big that a car brought in for repairs or service is lost in the shuffle of speed and carelessness. Because the local dealer relies on repeat business, rather than volume, it is to his advantage to give good service on any car you purchase, new or used.

The second reason for steadily increasing activity here in car sales is trade-in value. Daly City dealers can give you a better trade-in deal on a new or used car than you can get anywhere. Even now, dealers are giving larger trade-in allowances here than at any time during the past year.

Reputation is the third reason why sales here are at a peak. All six dealers are noted for fair dealings with customers, and their persistence in living up to promises in every car deal. This policy has brought new and used car buyers back year after year.

In summing up all these factors, it is plain to see why automobile business here is good.

Pastels Vie With Prints in Midsummer Fashion Picture

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHEN it comes to the voguishness of prints versus pastels in the present mode the matter resolves itself into pretty much of a fifty-fifty proposition. Which is to say that the midsummer collections are made up of a goodly showing of each.

There is no doubt as to the importance of pastels especially for cleverly tailored daytime dresses that observe a nicety of detail which gives them "class" in the eyes of discriminating women who know their fashions. Favor for pastels is expressed not only in silk crepes and sheer woolsens but a hue and cry is resounding for smart linens in delectable muted pinks and blues, rose shades, cool-looking greens and grays, light yellows, lavenders and novelty shades as cyclamen, tulip shades and such. White linens and linens au naturel are also chic.

One reason for the big splurge that linens are making this season is that through the wonders of modern scientific processing newer linens carry a promise of non-wrinkling and non-shrinking.

At the top of the picture to the left see the attractive spectator sports dress of pastel blue crease-resistant imported linen. It has one of the very smart umbrella-tucked skirts. A belt braided in matching blue, fuchsia and yellow silk floss says color in unmistakable terms. The boutonniere is of self-linen and the cunning poke bonnet is of white straw.

The dress to the right in the background of this group is of a nubby sheer, pure linen in a delectable shell pink. Fitted waistline and sleeves cleverly appliqued with contrasting bands of periwinkle blue and strawberry linen are highspots in its styling. Sunburst tucks at the neckline, and unpressed pleats in the skirt, are also significant details. Every dress with a jacket is fashion's decree this season which accounts for a matching shell pink bolero which you carry or which you wear according to pomp and circumstances.

Before leaving the linen theme, just a word in regard to the smart looking redingotes tailored of white or natural linen which ladies of fashion are wearing over their lingerie frocks this summer. They are a modern version of the one-time honored "linen duster."

In regard to the silk prints that

Play Suits Adopt 'Little Girl' Air

Some of the new play suits have a little-girl air. A 1939 variation of the popular shirt, shorts, skirt combination is made of gay floral striped cotton, and links a one-piece, puff-sleeved play suit and a detachable skirt hemmed with a frill.

Another, of ticking, is made up of a square-necked puff sleeved frock and shorts of the same material.

Tennis fans are choosing more dresses than shorts for play this year, one of New York's smartest shops reports. The smartest are white pique rayon or linen, designed with brief gored or plaited skirts ending above the knees.

Cowbell Organ

Smiley Burnette, a comedian of Hollywood, Calif., wasn't satisfied with playing 53 different musical instruments, so he invented another one—a cowbell organ, says the American Magazine.

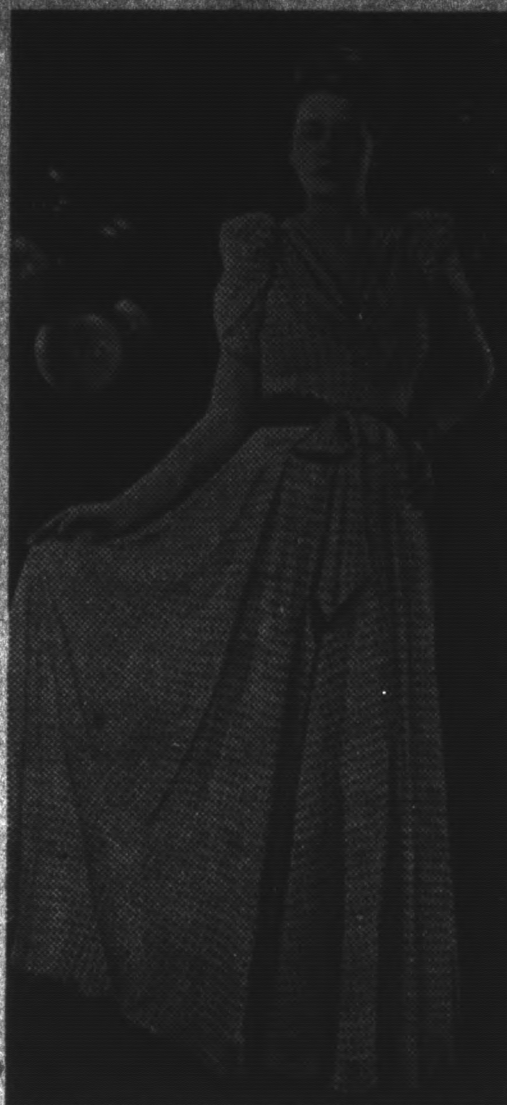

are everywhere present, and which are in friendly rivalry to smart linens, there is a decided flair among women who dress in the height of fashion for patternings that run to neat checks, and to plaids and stripes with nothing less than a stampede for dotted effects of every description. As the mid-season approaches suits of the new check silks will come into play in perfect fashion.

To the left in the foreground of the illustration a fashionable miss is wearing a smart frock for a day under the sun in the country. The dress is of blue silk with white pin dots. The collar piece is white, likewise belt and buttons.

A gay and colorful evening gown is shown to the right. It is of Scotch plaid trimmed with lace. The white organza blouse is also trimmed with lace. The full floor length skirt of gay print with dainty lingerie shirtwaist is a favorite evening fashion formula.

Red Dots White

Still the rage for polka dots goes on. In the picture it is white silk chiffon with red polka dots that fashions a most captivating evening dress. For country club wear and city roofs under starlit skies with music in the air here is the gown ideal. The halo hat in tones of red matches the kid belt which is tied with a fabric bow. The bracelet is the new-type bubble lass that glitters in prismatic colors.

Lingerie Frock Is Latest for Party

Exquisite Detail Features Newest Fashion.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

There isn't any type dress that looks so new this midsummer and so strikingly lovely as does the gown of sheerest white that is lavished with exquisite detail, notably fine pin tucking, loads of daintiest lace edgings and that which is most outstanding of all—the use of quaint beading through which tiny ribbons have been drawn in the good old-fashioned way.

Not only are dotted swisses, sheer organzas and nets feminized in this way to look their sweetest, but pretty sprigged dimities, cloque organzies and flowery filmy printed materials are lace-laden, pin-tucked and ribbon-trimmed in like manner.

To accent the quaint turn of affairs necklines are made to look as if copied from the daguerreotypes of the long ago costumes. The drop-off-shoulder type is a favorite and the extremely low-cut square neck is also adopted, which together with short puff sleeves looks every inch a picture.

Fashion in Favor

Of Gold on White

For a new thrill try gold military looking buttons on your daytime all-white suit or dress or redingote coat. Another way of achieving the new gold and white mode is to belt your white dress or coat with gold kid. Ultra moderns are wearing gold mesh hair nets under their snow white hats.

Grade Crossings

There are 234,231 highway grade crossings the country over.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

by Thornton W. Burgess

MR. BLACKSNAKE DECIDES TO DINE

MR. BLACKSNAKE, coiled on a flat stone of the old wall on the edge of the Old Orchard, had fully made up his mind to dine on young woodpeckers. All about him were the little feathered people who live in the Old Orchard, all screaming at him and calling him bad names. He didn't mind this in the least. In the first place, he was used to it. In the second place, he knew perfectly that bad names never yet hurt anyone. The truth is, he had coiled up there just to draw the birds around him. You see, he is so sharp that he knew that he would

"One, two, three, four, five," counted Mr. Blacksnake, and smacked his lips.

He was able to tell by the way they acted when they saw him which ones had babies in their homes, and which had not. And sure enough he could. He knew that the ones who appeared the most worried at the sight of him, who were the boldest and came the nearest, were the ones who had babies at home.

One of these was Goldie the Oriole. "His nest is way up high and out on the slender branches. It is too much work and too risky to climb way up there," thought Mr. Blacksnake.

Another was Chippy the Sparrow. "His nest is not very high and it is easy to get to, but his babies are so small that they are hardly worth while," thought Mr. Blacksnake.

A third was Drummer the Woodpecker. "His nest is in a hole in that nearest apple tree, because I saw him making it there. It isn't very high up. His babies are of good size, and there is sure to be enough of them for a good meal. Young Woodpeckers are very good eating, so I believe I'll sample them right away," thought Mr. Blacksnake.

He lazily uncoiled and slipped off the stone wall. Then he glided swiftly through the grass, all the birds following and anxiously watching to see where he was going. All the time they made a terrible racket. Mr. Blacksnake paid not the least bit of attention to them. He made straight for the tree in which was the home of Drummer the Woodpecker. When Drummer saw this he became almost crazy. Twice he dashed almost in the face of Mr. Blacksnake. Mr. Blacksnake just chuckled to himself, for he knew now that there wasn't the least doubt about those babies. Mrs. Drummer, who remained at home, now came out, and she was even braver than Drummer in trying to drive Mr. Blacksnake away. Once he struck at her and almost caught her. But nothing that Drummer or

Enthusiasm Grows For White Jersey

The practicality of white jersey, the smart appearance, the adaptability to sculptural draping and exquisite tailoring has so impressed designers they are expressing an enthusiasm for it that knows no bounds. Try out a costume of jersey and see what it does for you. It will slenderize you, it will be the touch the sort you "love to wear." The white rayon jerseys especially come out after a tugging "white as snow" which is exactly what every woman hopes for, even longs for in her white costumes.

Diamond Earrings
Earrings, particularly diamond and pearl ones, are becoming increasingly important as accents for every costume.

Mrs. Drummer could do changed Mr. Blacksnake's intention. He kept right on and began to climb the tree. Now, some of Mr. Blacksnake's relatives—in fact, most of them—cannot climb, but he himself is a very good climber, and it was no work at all for him to get up to the round hole which was the doorway of Drummer's home. As he drew near he heard a sound that made his eyes sparkle. You see, the babies inside the hollow heard him, and, being young and quite innocent of the dangers of the Great World, they thought it was their mother, or father bringing them something to eat, and so each began to call for the goody they thought was being brought to them. When Mr. Blacksnake reached the doorway he coiled himself about a branch so as not to lose his balance, and fall, and then he looked in at the doorway.

"One, two, three, four, five," counted Mr. Blacksnake, and smacked his lips.

"My, but I shall have a feast! I'm so glad I happened to think to come up to the Old Orchard."

Style Notes

Call is for white silk or rayon jersey costume.

Again black and white goes "top" in fashion.

You must have at least one washable lace dress.

Streamers abound on hats wide of brim or otherwise.

Emphasis is on lingerie shirt-waist with contrast skirt.

Wear white sharkskin redingote over your gay print frock.

Lingerie frock with exquisite detail is midsummer favorite.

Daytime stark white costumes are highlighted with touches of gold.

Sixth Sense?

Checking up on the belief that the blind develop a "sixth sense," students performed experiments at Southern Methodist university and decided the belief was false.

Cotton and Linen Are Big Favorites

More than ever are women conscious this year of the laundering possibilities of their clothes. Perhaps that is why cotton and linen are prime favorites, whether disguised as Gypsy, little-girl or Dutch in design.

Girls who like to do their own sewing find cottons easy to make. Of interest at the moment is a new fabric called cotton surrah, resembling lustrous broadcloth, and especially suitable for spectator sports clothes or children's garments.

Linens have returned to a leading position largely because of introduction of new crease-resistant methods of making them.

International Signals

Because of the increase of foreign motorists in European countries, the League of Nations has recommended international road signals.
